

FRAUHM Noon Meeting
Tuesday, November 11, 2018
Campus Center Room 309

Dr. Neal Milner

To speak on the results of the midterm elections

Dr. Milner taught political science at UH for 40 years. A political analyst for KITV and a regular contributor to Hawaii Public Radio's "The Conversation," he is the author of The Gift of Underpants.

He helped found and directed the University's Program on Conflict Resolution, part of a national network of such programs.

After some brief visits to London to study spiritual healing, he revived his interest in the politics of rights, but changed focus from litigation strategies to everyday use of rights discourses and practices and on the ways rights talk catalyses the imagination.

This is Dr. Milner's third presentation to FRAUHM, after "Politics in Hawaii" in September 2010 and "Hawaiian Issues in the 2016 Election," October 2016.

Our room door opens at 11:30, giving us up to an hour to talk story and enjoy lunch--buy or bring your own--with colleagues before the meeting begins, often with official notices followed by the introduction of the speaker.
